Part II: Review of Current Literature

Each pharmacy practice resident will be assigned 4-6 journal issues to review each month by their program director from the following selection: JAMA (published weekly), NEJM (published weekly), Lancet (published weekly), AJHP (published twice monthly), Hospital Pharmacy (published monthly), Annals of Pharmacotherapy (published monthly), and Pharmacotherapy (published monthly). Each specialty resident will be assigned journals by their preceptor which are appropriate to their specialty.

Each resident will briefly (10 minutes or less) present all the pertinent and important articles within their assigned journal issues.

Recommendation for choosing pertinent articles: 1) drug-related topic 2) comparator trial 3) cutting edge information 4) will have an impact on clinical practice 5) avoid review articles and case-studies.
